WHEELING, W. VA., JULY 13, 1882.

Two candidates have been nominated for Congress in the 4th West Virginia district viz Dr. Barbee, the candidate of the Greenbackers, and Judge George Loomis the candidate of the Republicans. The Democrats will have a candidate in the field in due time. So that the contest, when it opens, will be triangular in its character. As regards personal standing the two candidates already in the field are supposed to be unexceptionable. In the matter of professional training for such a position. Judge Loomis has the advantage of career as a lawyer and public speaker Say what we may about lawyers, their ession is the one after all that fits them for law making. The people recognize this fact throughout the country by sending an overwhelming preponderance of them to both houses of Congress. A trained and experienced lawyer of character and standing is the man who as a rule can best serve the interests of a Congressional district. There are notable exceptions, of course, but like all exceptions they only prove the general rule. We take it there fore that Judge Loomis starts out with this do they mean? advantage in his favor. He is trained to explain their bearing on the interests of

We hope to see the present canvass con ducted upon the issues really at stake be tween political parties. The capacity of a a party to grow depends on the vitality of its principles. The Republican party has es of a distinctive character. They are such as after repeated trials for the las twenty years have commended themselves to the favor of a majority of the people There is no reason why they should not be as popular in West Virginia as in Ohio and Pennsylvania. West Virginia stands side by side with these States as respects a comnunity of interest. She is, like Western Pennsylvania, a State to be developed and built up by a diversified industry. The legislation of the Republican party has always tended in this direction. More than any other party, since the days of the Whig party, it has held to the doctrine of tering of the largest measure and area of diversified industry. This policy has made Pennsylvania great, and is ca-pable of making West Virginia great. As mere agricultural State West Virginia has only a very slow growth before her She must be a manufacturing State.

Again, the Republican party more than other party has defended and upheld the honor of the nation as regards stric promises to pay. It has demonstrated to the world that honesty is the best policy for nations as well as individuals to pursue. The immense decrease in the interest of the National debt from $150,000,000 per annum to less than $65,000,000, and the further expected decrease from 31 per cent to 21 per cent bonds, shows what an honest administration of the National finances will bring about. This is the proud record of the Republican party Every Republican in the land can point to it with pride and gratification.

We believe that the Republican party has no principles to hide or be ashamed of, and that the proper way to conduct a canvass is not to subordinate but to evaluate ciples before the eyes of the people. If, as a party, we do not succeed in any we have sown good seed, have conducted an educational canvass as respects the principles of our party, and have advanced its standards a march nearer to ultimate victory.

article on the subject of a tariff that he does not advocate free trade. In this respect then he differs from many so-called tariff reformers. The Democratic platform here as would defy and restrain of 1880 declared for "a tariff for rever only." What this declaration meant can be judged of by a preceding declaration o the same party in National Convention as sembled, "for progressive free trade throughout the world." It is to "progressive free trade throughout the world" that the party looks. It looks in this direction because the leading element in the party— the Southern element—is a free trade element, preferring, if anything, to bring its wares of every kind from Old rather than

New England. A tariff for revenue only, such as Mr. Turner refers to, is a very deceptive phrase The present tariff produces a large amount of revenue to the United States-about $200,000,000-and one objection to it is that it produces too much revenue, the other objection being that it taxes unduly certain interests to produce this enormous revenue. We are of those who admit that the present tariff needs readjustment in order that its inequalities may be rectified We advocate, for instance, a considerable reduction of the tariff on steel rails, and wo have explained the ground on which we advocate it. Mr. Turner, however, proposes to abolish all duties that are protective in their character. He proposes to reduce everything to a revenue stand ard. Well, we need a good deal of revenue Part of it is derived from internal imposts such as the tax on whisky and tobacco etc., and part on imported goods. We need, say in all, $250,000,000, counting only net ordinary expenditures and interest on the public debt, of which the interhal revenue will supply, after the reductions proposed, say $100,000,000, leaving $150,000,000 to be raised by the tariff. A revenue tariff then would mean a tariff that would raise $150,000,000, or $15,000, 000 less than the present tariff produced last year. This would certainly require a good deal of protection and probably, under favorable circum-Mr. Turner and ourselves would not be very far apart in such adjustments as would reduce the present tariff down to $150,000,000. He is aware, howover, of two facts, (1) that there is a movement on loot to reduce the internal revenue to a nominal sum, and (2) that the Government must provide for a certain amount of estimated outlay for pensions next year is $100,000,000; last year it was $50,000,000. The whole estimated expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1883, foot up $340,462,507 65. Deducting internal re-000,000, and we have $240,000,000 to raise tariff and the public lands? The public lands yield but a trifle, so that, substantially the whole amount must come from th tariff. This then would necessitate as much tariff revenue as we now raise.

Now the tariff is only estimated to produce $215,000,000 for the fiscal year evenue was estimated, without reference to the proposed reductions, to produce $155,000,000. So that when Mr. Turner de tariff for revenue he must be understood t produce as much at least as the presen tariff produces.

It will be seen from this data that they is a great deal of deceptive writing in re gard to a tariff for revenue. The govern pay its current expenses and liabilities. I nust get this money, as we have explain ed, mainly from two sources, custom re ceipts and internal revenue receipts. Some of the active "tariff reformers," like Sena tor Beck, of Kentucky, advocate a whole sale reduction of the duties on tobacc and spirits, thereby making the presen tariff, or its equivalent, a necessity. Sup-pose they succeed, what then? We must continue a high scale of tariff duties o we must resort to direct taxation. Mr. Turner will hardly advocate direct taxa tion. The boldest of the tariff reformer do not advocate such taxation. What then

It will be seen that while Mr. Turner professes to be in favor of a "tariff for rev enue only," the tenor of his argument is on behalf of free trade. No nation has ab solute free trade-not even England She levies certain very heavy duties. Ter by her. The last budget of Mr. Gladston shows an estimate of $96,500,000 from customs. It also shows a much larger geeral estimate of receipts and expenit ures than ours, and, while England may claim, for effect, that her people are free from tariff taxes than ours, yet her indirec house duty, as well as her tea and coffee taxes, all bear upon the masses, and are perhaps felt quite as much by them as tar iff taxes are by the people of this country. We do not understand Mr. Turner as proposing to do away with any of the neces sary expenditures of the government. Den ocrats seem to be very anxious to secure even extraordinary appropriations. West Virginia gets her full share of these for her rivers, public buildings etc. The Democrate for the Mississippi river and its tributaries All these appropriations, united to the nec mainly by the tariff. When therefor Mr. Turner claims to be in favor of a tariff for revenue, and yet makes arguments in avor of free trade, we do not exactly see the force of his position. We do not ask for a tariff that will raise no revenue-for a prohibitory tariff — but for a tariff that while it is laid for revenue shall so discriminate as to protect our own interests. This is the Republican position and platform. As long as duties are neces sary they should be laid (1) upon articles of luxury and (2) upon such articles as an-tagonize a healthful diversification of into escape laying wide-spread and ever heavy duties? The present clamor for a tariff for reven r district in any particular ue only, if it really has any meaning we can have at least this at all, means this, a reduction of our sche dule of duties to a point that will vastly and overwhelmingly stimulate importa tions to this country. In order to produce the revenue required, supposing the tariff reformers to reduce the duties down to must necessarily be a beavy increase in the course the substitution of European good for American goods. It would would either be this or such a reduction in prices dustry on our own soil. And inasm large sums are now necessary for the ex penditures of the Government, such as the payment of interest, the payment of pen

provement of rivers and harbors, the sup
